The state of affairs in Ireland has materially changed, though every day seems to lessen the probability of any serious outbreak That this unfortunate country is not now plunged into all the horror of a civil war is not to be attributed to the disinclination of the people to rise in arms, but rather owing to the want of able and trustworthy leaders No serious disturbance in Ireland has occurred since the sailing of the Cambria. The Tribune's news of the battle of Slievenamon is proved to be as was expected by everyboby, a most outrageous hoax. William Smith O'Brien was arrested at the Railroad station at Thurles, on Saturday evening last, whilst in the act of procuring a ticket for Limerick, where, it is said, he intended to take refuge among his friends. Immediately after his arrest, he was marched to Bridewell, and subsequently was conveyed to Dublin, and lodged in Kilmainham jail.

After O'Brien's arrest, he is said to have expressed himself satisfied of the hopelessness of accomplishing his object, and that he was induced to leave his retreat in the mountains, because the further he went the more the people seemed to fear to harbor him, or to hold any communication with him. He is suid to be cheerful, and his wife is allowed free access to him; other friends are permitted to converse with him in the presence of the jail authorties.

Richard O'Gorman, for whose arrest three hundred pounds are offered, on attempting to escape from the country, was arrested by the Coast Guard, after he had crossed the Shannon in an open boat. The notice was forthwith sent to the police, but before they arrived, O'Gorman had persuaded his captors that he was a mere traveller from Derry to Clare, and left in a boat. He subsequently boarded a vessel bound down the Shannon for America, in which he escaped. A war steamer had been despatched after the ves-

There are the usual conflicting accounts about the potato crop in Ireland. But most certainly the blight is making progress in various districts. The far greater portion of the crop, however, is still quite safe.

The insurrection appears to be quelled almost entirely. Offers of surrender have been made on the part of the leaders since O'-Brien's arrest, but the Government has refused to listen to any terms whatever.

FRANKLIN A. CLARK.

A correspondent of the Miltonian speaking of the nominations, intimates that n consequence of Charles Weaver's nomination for Commissioner our "chance for the county printing is not as good as it might have been." As a report had been put into circulation that we desired Mr. Bucher's election to secure that printing, we deem it our duty to state that we had no personal interest in the election of either Mr. Bucher or Mr. Weaver. The county printing has been for many years given by contract to the lowest bidder, excepting last year, when for reasons that we shall not explain at present, it was given out privately, three months before the usual time. Now all that we have asked, is to give it out as usual, to the lowest bidder, and if we do not agree to perform the work on cheaper and Union. better terms than any one else, we do not

Mr. Follmer and Mr. Hoffa, both declared early last winter, that hereafter the county printing should be given to the lowest bidder. It was therefore a matter of indifference, so far as we were concerned, who should be elected Commissioner as neither of the candidates could alter the decision of the board, nor was either of them, we believe, inclined to do so. We have referred to this matter not for the purpose of complaint or even as an act of ustice to ourselves, but to do justice to Mr. Bucher, for whose injury it was made to operate. In a pecuniary point of view, we have always regarded it as a small matter, as an evidence of which, we only need say, that we have published the American, now eight years, and until last January, we never deemed it of sufficient importance to offer a proposal to do the work, in that paper, though often requested. All we sk is fair play, and an equal chance. Will the Miltonian correct the false impression made by its correspondent.

in doubt whether Denmark will recognize the | GEN. CAMERON, CHAS. BROWN AND V. E. |

The Evening Bulletin comes down with tremendous force on the Hon, Chas, Brown, member of Congress from the Third District in Philadelphia. Gen. Cameron had opposed the nomination of V. E. Piollett, sonin-law of Jesse Miller, as paymaster in the Army, and he was rejected by the Senate. Through the influence of Mr. Buchanan, who, the Bulletin says, promised the wife of Piollet to stand by him, he was again nominated by the President. Near the close of the session, Mr. Brown and others, of Piollett's friends, taking advantage of Gen. Cameron's temporary absence, on account of his health, procured his nomination to be called up and confirmed, by representing that Gen. Cameron, would not return-This conduct Gen. Cameron afterwards publicly resented in such a manner that Brown came out in a letter in his own defence. To this letter the Bulletin replies with great severity, giving a brief statement of the transaction. The following is an extract:

"The truth is, Brown was insulted, and grossly insulted, in the presence of two lead-ing democratic members of the House of Representatives from Pennsylvania; and the truth is, that he tamely and meanly submitted to it-feeling, as he did, that he deserved the reproach and resentment of the high toned man to whom he offered his hand, which was indignantly refused with well applied and well merited expressions of contempt and opprobrium. To be sure there could be no credit in insulting Brown, for ever since he entered public life he has been kicked and cuffed for his impertinence and dirty tricks, till no one would hope to excite a spark of resentment in his spiritless carcass.

The seat he now holds was obtained by corruption, and the miserable caitiff who betrayed his constituency to place him in Congress, is at this time a convict, disappoint-ed in his hopes of a pardon by the faithlessless of the man whom he served.

THE WHIG COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Whiz Convention to nominate candidadtes for the approaching election, assembled at this place on Monday last. The convention was organized by the appointment of Major Wm. G. Scott of Rush, as President, and the usual number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries, and adjourned until the afternoon. The great bone of contention was the Senatorship. Capt. Samuel Hunter, Col. J. H. Purdy and Charles Pleasants, Esq., were the candidates from this side the river, and Robert M. Frick from the other side. The delegates in the Forks came generally instructed for Mr. Frick, and the delegates from Shamokin through some strange kind of hocus pocus were also instructed for him. This, with the absence of the eight delegates from Upper, Little and Lower Mahonoy and Coal township, secured the nomination of Mr. Frick, on the second ballot. This unlooked for, and unexpected result was received with evident signs of chagrin and mortification, and a great portion of the spectators, though thorough whigs, came out of the Court House vowing their determination to support no such nomination. Mr. Frick was nominated full, the vote would have been 15 to 21 against him on the second ballot, and most probably 12 to 24 on the third ballot. We never saw Mr. Bright look more cheerful than he did on hearing that Mr. Frick, would be nominated. He was just about to start for Harrisburg, and his eyes danced in their sockets as if they were ready to leap over the delicate nasal ornament, which nature has so lavishly bestowed on him. If he don't lay out Mr. Robert M. Frick, to the tone of 1000 to 1200 majority in this county, we are much mistaken in the signs of the times.

Remarkable Adventure.

A circumstance happened this week to a Mrs. Morney, the wife of a farmer residing in the township of Hibbert, which created much alarm in the neighborhood. The woman is about 35 years old, and the mother of thirteen children, the youngest of whom, a child about eight months old, she left in the eradle on Monday last, about 10 o'clock in the morning, while she went into the bash in search of a stray ox or cow. It was in the afto ternoon before she found the objects of her search, when she milked the cow for her 3 own sustenance, soon after, the cattle separating, the poor woman, being under the impression that the ox would be most likely to not con- lead her out of the bush, followed it day and night until Wednesday morning, when is made the road at Flanigan's tavern, 20 miles from London. Having been in the woods 7 North Carolina, 11 the whole two days and nights; she was so completely exhausted by fatigue and want of nourishment, that Mr. Flanigan found it necessary to keep her at his house for a couple of days before she was in a condition to be removed, when he kindly forwarded her to White's tavern, on her way home.

Her neighbors, alarmed at her long absence started on Monday afternoon in search of her. and at 5 o'clock in the evening came up to the cow, which appeared to have been recently milked. Had Mrs. Morney therefore followed it instead of the ox, she might have reached her home the same night. Their apprehensions were not a little increased by this circumstance, and fearing that the woman would perish, resolved, in the praiseworthy manner, to turn out the whole neighborhood, and not abandon their object until they had found her dead or alive. Some of them remained in the bush all night, while the rest returned home with the cow, and having provided themselves with a week's provisions, again started, nearly a hundred strong, at day break the next morning, in different directions in the woods, and not knowing of the woman's safety, were still in pursuit when we received these details yesterday .- Huron (Canada West) Gazette
